

Impact Of A Network Of 20 Icafes Among UPGs In A Nation

There are several levels of impact:

1. The impact of the project itself on the churches and missions involved in making it happen.
2. The impact of the project on the individual missionaries involved.
3. The impact on the indigenous missionary movement in that nation.
4. The impact of individual icafes on the underground Christians in their area.
5. The impact of the individual icafes on the above-ground churches in their area.
6. The impact of individual icafes on their local business district.
7. The impact of individual icafes on their general community in particular students and professionals.
8. The impact of individual icafes as discipleship centers for new converts.
9. The impact of the icafe in training local believers in how to set up self-replicating house-churches.
10. The impact of computer-training courses and holistic ministry provided through the icafes.
11. The impact of bridging the digital divide for isolated communities.
12. The impact of the network of icafes on passing on news and information and job and career opportunities around the nation.
